AACC art show

Public Exhibition of the works of Issac Shamsud-Din begins May 7th and will continue until May 17th, viewing begins at 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m., Monday thru Saturday in the fireplace room of the Tacoma Public Library, 1102 Tacoma Ave. So.

Featured in the exhibition are large scale color photographs of Shamsud-din's 1964-65 Portland State University Mural, the 1977-78 Albina Mural Project and The Moore Street Community Center Mural. Preparatory drawings, Documentary materials and works for publication will be shown with a fifteen (15) year selection of paintings and drawings, including works not previously exhibited.

Exhibition curator, Sid White, of the Evergreen State College faculty wrote. "The public and personal format provides a means for examining two parallel and not necessarily conflicting concerns of the artist. First, to respond to social, political and cultural need with public statements presented in public forms. Second, to respond to the world from a personal vantage point, not necessarily (or totally) as a member or a advocate of a particular segment of the public but as a unique individual giving form to personal visions and perceptions."

Isaac Shamsud-Din grew up in Portland, attending public schools and college in the Vanport and Albina area. During the 1960's, he was active in the civil rights movement in Tennesee, Arkansas, Georgia, and San Francisco- as an editor, artist and community organizer. He has been a lecturer in the Black studies department at San Francisco State University, as well as organizing and supervising community cultural activities, and festivals throughout Portland. His exhibitions have been viewed at the Portland Art Museum, Museum of Art of the University of Oregon, Portland State University, Albina Art Center, Lewis and Clark College, Mt Hood Community College, Portland City Hall, Salem, Oregon, Little Rock, Arkansas, San Francisco, California, and the Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington, as well as being included in Volume II of Black Artist About Art.

This exhibition is sponsored by the African-American Cultural Center, a component of the Cultural Pluralism Consortium, Tacoma Public Library, Washington State Commission of the Arts, The Evergreen State College, and the Pierce-County Civic Arts Commission.

This event is free to the public. Don't miss this unique opportunity to view the personal and public exhibition of this noted Northwest Artist.

Activist to run for seat in 27th

Art Wang announced his plans Sunday to run for the 27th district seat being vacated by State Representative A.A. "Doc" Adams.

Wang, 31, has worked as a legislative research anaylst on the professional staff of the House of Representatives for the past four years. Currently doing research for the House Democratic Caucus, Wang also spent two years as a non-partisan analyst for the House Committee on Insurance.

Speaking to a crowd of more than 100 supporters at the Mountaineers Club, Wang announced he would emphasize ethics and legislative reform. "No matter how much good is done on behalf of the people of our state, it all becomes tainted if even one elected official betrays the public trust. The most important issue is to restore confidence in our government. We must have the highest standards for our elected officials."

Wang also stressed the issue of growth and neighborhood preservation. "The quality of life in our neighborhoods must be preserved. We are facing dramatic growth throughout Puget Sound. We need the jobs, but we also need to manage growth in an orderly way. Future generations should not be left to pay the increased costs of urban sprawl and restoring neighborhoods which have been destroyed."

"Rising energy costs are among the biggest contributors to inflation," Wang declared. He promoted development of alternative energy sources, rigorous conservation standards, and the enhancement of public transportation. "We must make it easier for people to get to work without depending on their private automobiles," he said.

On the issue of crime, Wang cited statistics showing "Washington has more Blacks locked up in prison than any other state in the country." He urged the establishment of "fair standards for sentencing" and "restoration of consistency and certainty in punishing criminals."

Wang is a former VISTA volunteer with the Tacoma Urban League. Starting in 1973, he served as a community organizer at the Tacoma Community House where he helped organize the Asian American Alliance. He also directed several employment and training projects for the Tacoma Community House. Wang has also taught courses in Urban Studies at the University of Puget Sound and worked as a consultant for the United Methodist Church.

His community involvement includes three years on the Tacoma Human Relations Commission and five years on the Pierce County Manpower Council. He has also served on the Tacoma Community Development Advisory Board, the Municipal League Candidate Evaluation Committee, the Human Services Coalition, The Tacoma Community Organizing Project, the Minority Concerns Task Force, and several United Way

Outside... Looking In

by Virginia Taylor

The Black Women's Caucus of Washington State (BWCWS) held their annual meeting in Seattle recently. It was very successful and enlightening. The workshops were good. One of the local participants was Roz Woodhouse director of licensing for Washington State. Her topic was "The power of the vote--from a state perspective." Another local speaker, Rosa Franklin's topic was "Grassroots participation--the 'nitty gritty' of the political system." The theme throughout the session was: Black folks will have to make their own politics.

Your correspondent was installed as president, Tacoma's Daisy Stallworth is 1st vice president, Kathy Hollis of Pasco is 2nd vice president, Lenore Hughes of Olympia is secretary, and Norma Wright of Tacoma is treasurer. Our own Area III president Lillian Jasper was given a special award for her contribution to her/our community--Tacoma/Pierce County. Thelma Jackson of Olympia, our Founder, and immediate past president, was honored with an award for outstanding service in behalf of our organization.

The banquet held Saturday night had Barbara Williams, Executive Director of the Congressional Black Caucus as guest speaker. She said; with the redistricting of Congressional seats, Blacks could lose 9 of the 17 districts that we control. The Census count will play a major role--Blacks must be counted and they must vote! She cited the fact that with the aid of computers congressmen know who votes. They don't hear from us on the issues so it's back to the old adage of "the squeaky wheel gets the grease."

She went on to state that Black folk aren't making any noise in D.C. The last outcry from a united Black Front was on the busing amendment--with a minor shriek on Baakke. She thinks we should go back to the strengths of our heritage; such as loving one another, caring about each other, trusting in God and the foundation of the Black church. Stating that the Black church is the only institution controlled by Blacks for Blacks in America Ms Williams went on to say that "we don't need any federal dollars to keep it's doors open." Congresswoman Williams believes that one reason America has lost the respect of many nations of the World is because it has failed to take care of its own people, namely the poor, the old and the disadvantaged.

America has lost respect to the point that we can't even "buy" a friendly nation--as used to be the case. I could go on and on but I won't.

The third annual meeting of BWC of Washington was a success. Every Black Woman should belong. Some Tacoma members in attendance were Lillie Morris, Sarah Gordon, Royce Brown, Bernice Griffin, Hugh Wells an associate member--yes, men belong too--Sharon Smith, Verdell Pierce, and many others.

On June 7-11 the National Mayor's Conference will be held in Seattle. I hear Mr. Carter will speak to them--that should prove to be an interesting week, in light of his budget cuts--more on this later.

Attended the Seattle Urban League's 50th anniversary dinner--guest speaker was the eloquent Vernon Jordan, president of the National Urban League. His theme "what do we want" emphasized that hands that once picked cotton did and will pick a president.

He said we (the Black vote) can go Democratic, go Republican, or go home. Either way what we do will say who will live in the White House for the next four years. He said the slight at Richmond (where the Black Agenda Conference was held) need not bother us because before the second Tuesday in November each one will come by us.

Some of my table companions were: our illustrious president of the Tacoma Urban League, Tom Dixon, Mr, Charles Walker, and Margaret Anderson.

Our own Urban League Dinner will be June 5th. Tickets are available by calling Tacoma Urban League: 383-2006.

I will be writing next week about the Black Agenda for Pierce County--be on the lookout.

Mr. John Viniable, an employee of Serta Northwest, wishes to thank everyone who supported him while he was fighting his discrimination case --against the company--he won--that means we won. Mr. Viniable is a board member of the Tacoma Branch NAACP. Well that's all for now; see you next week. Don't forget the Art Exhibit at Tacoma Public Library--9-6 daily.

TONY BROWN'S JOURNAL, the television series, is shown every Sunday on KING-TV 5 at 4:30 p.m.

In the early presidential primaries, Blacks were narrowly backing Carter over Kennedy. But when the primary scene shifted to Pennsylvania and the industrial states, Kennedy, with the urban Black vote, began to win against the president.

The Joint Center For Political Studies' analysis based on New York, Florida, Alabama, and Illinois found that Black voters in Florida, for example, picked President Carter (67 percent) over Senator Kennedy (29 percent) and a much narrower majority (52 percent) in New York preferred Carter as the choice for the Democratic nominee. However, the Pennsylvania Black vote went heavily to Kennedy and provided a small, but crucial two percent victory margin.

But what the numbers don't and can't measure is the attitude of Blacks towards both men. At best, it's a "nose holding" contest. Both Democrats have a credibility problem.

Carter is perceived as an exploiter of the Black community. Using Andy Young, the King family, and other Black surrogates, Carter came to power on the back of the Black vote. The traditional criteria of measuring political rewards to the Black community--jobs and housing--are statistically and factually in worse shape now than in 1976.

Although Kennedy has not shaken the concern about his integrity that this fundamental community has developed and his ethics are questionable, he is seen as the lesser of two evils.

"If you don't vote for Carter; who in the hell are you going to vote for--Reagan?" is the new challenge to a bewildered Black community. "So Carter didn't deliver. That's not the issue. The issue is that Blacks don't have any choice," a Carter organizer argues.

Blacks played it dumb and bought into "less racism" politics in 1976. Convinced that Carter was "less racist" than Gerald Ford, Blacks gave an estimated percent in a decisive bloc vote while Whites voted for Ford by a 52 to 48 percent margin and the White South preferred Ford by a 55 to 45 percent majority. You might say that Blacks put the first peanut farmer in the White House.

To avoid another political disaster in 1980, Blacks should adopt my "Don't Vote--Make Your Vote Count" strategy.

Blacks should continue voter registration and in November cast their ballots in local, state and national elections--up through races for the U.S. Senate. But in the presidential race, they should either vote Republican or not at all.

"But Reagan's a racist" is the anticipated response to this plan. But for purposes of avoiding a repeat of the 1976 "less racism" trap, let's assume that both Reagan and Carter are racists. And with racism out of the way as the sole criterion, we can proceed on to the quid pro quo dictum which governs electoral politics, that is, something for something.

Groups, other than Blacks, are rewarded because of their support. 1976 was a classic case of a bloc vote by Blacks winning for a candidate and overcoming both deficit White and regional votes.

If Blacks don't vote for the Democratic presidential nominee by at least a 75 to 80 percent majority, he can't win, especially in 1980 when the other two legs in the Democratic Party triad--Jews and White blue-collar workers-- will sit it out or vote substantially for Reagan.

Therefore, if the Black vote for Carter is essentially an anti-Reagan vote and "soft," Reagan will win. If Reagan wins--now almost guaranteed by Carter's military blunder in Iran; that proved a turkey and John Anderson's drain on Carter's support by running as an independent--Blacks will again have nothing coming because they voted against the winner.

If a miracle happens and Carter wins, Blacks will get less than they did during his first term--if that's possible--because he'll be a lame duck.

But if enough Blacks cast two votes by voting for the Republican nominee for president or not at all and split their local presidential vote as a strategy, instead of giving it away because they are convinced Reagan is a racist, it will be the most demonstrable example of group political "smarts" ever witnessed.

Between 1980 and 1984, the Democrats will have to stop taking the Black vote for granted and reward Blacks as it does Jews and labor. The GOP will see a fresh chance to get Blacks to return to the pre-Roosevelt Republican fold and, with a sitting president, disperse more of the enormous quid pro quo largesse equitably among Afro-Americans.

It is not healthy politics to only have voter registration as a strategy. Then, only a choice between an Elmer Gantry on the one hand and a scam artist on the other is a no-choice tactic.

Another Black bloc vote for the Democratic nominee of the previous proportions is a vote for a return to the good old days of 1976 when a good old boy and his Black friends robbed them--of their vote.

tions at the time of registration. The Washington State Board of Health requires that every child be immunized against tetanus, diptheria, polio, measles, mumps, and rubella before entering school.

A booklet on the kindergarten program will be given to parents and child at registration. It outlines the program and details attendance regulations and information on school health services.

Tacoma is one of the few major school districts in the state and nation that offers students the choice of school they attend. This means a child has the option to go to any school in the district provided that the number of optional enrollment requests does not exceed the maximum student capacity for the building, or the student's ethnic identity does not violate the racial balance guidelines. Parents who want their child to attend another school outside their neighborhood should contact the building principal in their attendance area and request optional enrollment information.

Parents should also be aware of the unique educational opportunities at the district's Central Area optional enrollment schools, Stanley, McCarver and Bryant, in addition to various programs such as Head Start and Follow Through which are offered. Registration at these schools will be kept open until the enrollment limits are reached. For further information about programs at Stanley, McCarver or Bryant elementary schools, contact the principal at each school.

Parent may register their children for Head Start or Follow Through by contacting the district's early childhood education office, 593-6952.
